Welcome & Announcements

Call to Worship

Welcome to sacred community. Today we seek right relationships. As we intentionally come together in unity, we commit ourselves to being instruments of peace and righteousness.

In prayer, song, and sacrament we seek right relationships with God, each other, and all of creation. May we be attuned to the melody of Christ's peace.

Peace Hymn "We Serve the Prince of Peace" CCS #353

Prayer for Peace

Loving Source of Peace and Righteousness,

We seek your peace today and all days. We repent for times that our loyalty lies with sin, individualism, greed, systems of injustice, and ways of being that separate us from your loving presence. We lament systems in our world that perpetuate poverty, violence, racism, environmental degradation, and all forms of harm to your beloved creation.

We pray that we would be attuned to your Spirit of peace. We pray that our hearts and souls will seek righteousness, goodness, justice, and peace. May this inner work of prayer lead us to pathways of peace, reconciliation, and healing of the spirit. Sensitize our holy attention to your world. In the name of Christ, the Peaceful One, we pray. Amen.

*Sending Forth

May our experience today lead us to deeper commitment as disciples of Jesus Christ.

As we enter a new week and encounter many competing priorities, may we return to prayer and practice, abiding in the loving and guiding presence of God. May we be blessed as we seek to be incarnation in our community and world. Go with God.

Book Recommendation

The Presiding Bishopric is promoting a new book to support both congregational life and family ministry. The Generosi-Whatzit Book invites us to shift the conversation from “What do I want?” to “How can I help?”—a question that can shape both discipleship and community life. It is an interactive guide to help families and congregations explore generosity as a way of life through simple, meaningful activities.

While designed for families, the resource also works well in Sunday school, small groups, youth settings, and intergenerational gatherings. Each section includes scripture, a guided activity, and reflection questions to support connection and conversation. The Generosi-Whatzit Book is available through Herald House at bit.ly/HHGenerosity and will be coming soon to Amazon.

World Church Facebook Group

We're excited to announce a new Facebook group hosted by the World Church Communications Team! Join to find event announcements, updates, and news from around the church. Platforms like Facebook and Instagram are now designed to reach people who don't follow us yet. This means our public pages are better for introducing Community of Christ to new people than for staying connected with those who already know us. The new Facebook group is where we'll connect directly with members, seekers, and friends. We encourage you to keep following and sharing from our public social media because every share helps more people find our message of Christ's peace. Join at bit.ly/CofCFBGroup.

What are we inviting people to...ideological movements that are already pervasive in their lives? Or experiences that are nothing like the rest of their lives?

THANK YOU FOR CALLING IN SICK, MRS. EDWARDS, BUT IT IS REALLY NOT NECESSARY

SIRI ... SAY GRACE

My words are inspired by last Sunday's worship experience at the Highlands where the choreography of the singing, and prayers and different kinds of spoken messages refocused and elevated the command of Jesus to his disciples, "Go therefore and make disciples of all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit and teaching them to obey everything that I have commanded you. And remember, I am with you always, to the end of the age."

Towards the end of my 33-year career in the broadcast news business, my company, E.W. Scripps, interviewed thousands of news consumers in cities across the United States to determine why our audiences were shrinking and why so many people were moving away from our local news platforms. To be interviewed, a person had to spend a minimum of one hour a day consuming news: TV News (watching or consuming online), reading a newspaper, listening to news radio, reading a news magazine, etc.

Some of the common themes that emerged from interviewing these hardcore news consumers:

- Local news had lost its way. No longer prioritizing remarkable, unbiased, in-depth journalism.
- We had become too political: serious news consumers valued strong journalism, balance in reporting with multiple points of view.

- Our stories were too short; they wanted long-form, in-depth reporting and more investigative content, holding the powerful accountable.
- We were too trivial, too silly at times, and put too much effort into entertaining our audience.
- Basically, hardcore news consumers claimed they didn't consume our content as much anymore because our mission no longer stood out, we were trying too hard to appeal to a very broad audience, and we had 'lost our salt'.

I have seen some parallels in the mission of the church, not just Community of Christ, but many churches. Sometimes I think ideology has been elevated above theology, elevated above the gospel.

As a news director, after that huge news consumer research project, I became much more focused on our core mission of producing remarkable journalism. We stopped doing a lot of what we thought would appeal to a large younger audience. We reinvested in our priority mission of journalism. And after a few years, our news consuming audience had grown. More serious news consumers of all ages were consuming my TV station's news content.

This way of thinking is influencing how I lead in Community of Christ.

For example, even in our intensely polarized society, my political ideology is not the top priority in my Faith journey.

Leaning into the Gospel of Christ and trying (and failing) to live out the Sermon on the Mount has to be my priority.

I will not allow a political point of view to dominate my persona.

In Acts 1, even though the disciples had been exposed to all of Jesus' teachings, just before He ascended, it's apparent their tunnel vision remains when they press Him for an earthly, political kingdom.

6 ... "Lord, are you at this time [finally!] going to restore the kingdom to Israel?"

But for all intents and purposes, Jesus responds to their priority and says his priority for them is to preach the gospel, convert people, and grow the number of disciples in the world. He is more explicit in Matthew about this Great Commission.

The early church was up against an even more hostile and polarized culture than what we currently experience in the United States. But Christianity and the gospel message were brand new then. Perhaps after more than a couple of thousand years and a comparatively pretty easy life, that message no longer enralls us. Perhaps for the Community of Christ, evangelism has been swept aside in our own politically charged culture with more relevant, more passionate, dare I say more meaningful priorities.

Don't misunderstand me. I support social justice. I am looking forward to working our booth at the 2026 KC PrideFest, reinforcing our Welcoming and Inclusive mission. With enthusiasm, I will attend the church's 2026 Peace Forum, which focuses on critical environmental issues affecting our planet. I uplift our Central Avenue of Hope, confronting poverty in our community every day. But I am mindful that many organizations share these priorities. Be mindful not to dilute the church's core mission.

My top priority is sharing the Good News of Jesus Christ and showing others how leaning into the Gospel, learning the ways of the Holy Spirit, even in our suffering, is the most sustaining force there is.

Social justice is important, but I caution elevating it to the top of our Faith movement where we are united in a gospel translated into social policy.
